Gr 3-6â "Pedro Morales loves to play basketball, and as the point guard on his schools team, he knows that being successful on the court means being a good teammate. However, when Pedro decides to run for class president against the most popular boy in his grade, who also happens to be the school's star basketball player, he has to learn the hard way that not everyone is a team player. Drawing on his knowledge of the sport, Mike Lupica's novel ((Philomel, 2008) sends kids a message about the importance of cooperation and teamwork both on and off the court, without being preachy and didactic. Keith Nobbs's narration engages listeners and brings the characters to life. For fans of the series as well as reluctant readers.Amy Joslyn, Fairport Public Library, NYÂ©

Teachers, tutor and I had tried everything we could think of to get my 10 year old to "like" reading. Nothing was working. Even if he would read it, he wasn't doing well with reporting back what he read (comprehension). This is the only series that has captured his attention. LOVE, LOVE, LOVE it.

My son is enjoying this book!

Really enjoyed reading this book with my 9 year old son...he struggles with wanting to do his reading homework but this book was one he didn't complain about reading...the story was good, sports based...but it also had great messages about character, stepping outside your comfort zone, team work, and dealing with bullies. We can't wait to read more from this series!

Good book, but the ending was a little cheesy. But overall this is a good Mike Lupica book. .

Again, I'm a fan of any author who engages my son for over an hour of stillness! Great sports books for boys. Mine started Lupica books at 8 and is now 9 and still asks for them.

My son told it was the best book he ever read. I can't wait to buy the rest of the editions;

I chose this rating because it was a good idea to make it. I really like and it is a great book and I am sure that you can enjoy what I was

I've read that Mike Lupica writes amazing sports stories for young boys/men....so I bought this one for my grandson's 11th birthday. I know I'll buy more.
