Comparative Politics: Domestic Responses To Global Challenges

Synopsis

Balancing theory with application and featuring an engaging, student-friendly writing style, the Ninth Edition of COMPARATIVE POLITICS uses a unique theme-Domestic Responses to Global Challenges-to introduce key concepts and examine the growing interdependence of strong and weak states. COMPARATIVE POLITICS takes an in-depth look at ten countries and the European Union, framed within broader discussions in the part-opening chapters on Industrialized Democracies, Current and Former Communist Regimes, and The Global South. The introduction establishes a comparative structure based on five themes: conflict, democratization, economic liberalization, globalization, and challenges, which are then explored for each country. The countries discussed are categorized by economic development, helping students hone their skills of comparison, synthesis, and interpretation by studying countries of similar economic status. With this uniquely effective text, students can gain an understanding of important political trends and concepts, an exposure to politics in a number of countries, and a desire to dig more deeply into the fascinating field of comparative politics.

Customer Reviews

"good coverage of a range of countries, aimed at an appropriate intro level of student (not too high or too low), and with a good range of important concepts introduced and then integrated into different types of country examples." - Christopher Muste, University of Montana "I found the writing style engaging and light, while maintaining a high level of information. This is a very difficult balance to maintain and the authors consistently met this standard throughout the book." -Charles Hantz,

Danville Area Community College

Charles "Chip" Hauss wears two professional hats. He is the author of books on conflict resolution, comparative politics, and international relations. In 2013, he became editor of a series of books on Peace and Security in the Twenty-First Century and will write its first volume, tentatively entitled Security 2.0. He is also Government Liaison at the Alliance for Peacebuilding. He received his BA from Oberlin College and his MA and PhD from The University of Michigan. Before joining the Alliance, he spent 17 years each teaching at Colby College, Reading University (UK), and George Mason University. Hauss has taught a variety of courses in comparative politics, international relations, and peace studies. As an academic and as an activist, his work has been held together by an interest in and commitment to large scale, nonviolent political and social change. He can be reached at chiphauss@gmail.com, or hauss@allianceforpeacebuilding.org.

Not nearly as excellent as other Pearson Education and Cengage Learning textbooks. Single author format (Hauss ?) contains blatant falsehoods about completely indisputable and verifiable factual statistics (eg "GNP of Britain"), and also fails to define some extremely important terms (best example in the first three Chapters: on p35, "fascism" is mentioned twice, very briefly, and never defined. Apparently p35 is the only mention of "fascism" in this particular textbook, a huge omission of explanation). Apparently, from skimming the first four Chapters, this textbook suffers from inadequate peer review and deficient nonexistent fact-checking. On the plus side, many of the graphics and Tables are very helpful, especially to lower-division students. Among the explanations which are actually stated, most are clear enough to understand. However the glaring omissions lead me to wonder what else might be missing from this study of comparative government.
