I Am Here: Teaching About Refugees, Identity, Inclusion And The Media - A Citizenship Resource Pack For 11-14 Year Olds

Synopsis

Teaching about refugees, identity, inclusion and the media. A citizenship resource pack for 11-14 year olds. I am Here! provides a clear and detailed approach to teaching about the controversial subject of refugees. By using active learning techniques to link young people's sense of belonging with the acceptance and inclusion of people from diverse backgrounds this resource pack supports the development of inclusive schools and helps young people to develop key skills within the framework of the Citizenship curriculum. I am Here! consists of a programme of six one-hour lessons that use drama, case studies, refugee children's testimonies and examples of the media's portrayal of marginalised groups to get young people thinking critically. Photocopiable activity and information sheets are included, plus a video showing young refugees talking about their experiences. There are also three extension projects for schools that want to continue work on refugees. To support and encourage fellow teachers or youth workers to teach about refugees the pack also contains materials for a short training session, including video footage of pilot projects in schools that have used drama to tackle issues of diversity.
