In This Moment (In Plain Sight Book 3)

Synopsis

Clarissa Vale spent all summer building a greenhouse with her grandfather. Since his health is failing, this is the last time she'll spend quality time with him. The greenhouse is her pride and joy, and the one thing keeping her heart mended after getting dumped by a guy who told her she just wasn't good enough. So when it gets vandalized on the first day of school, Clarissa vows to find the person responsible and make them pay. Gavin Voss's home life is the very definition of shitty. His mom works too hard, too much, and for hardly any pay. His father is a barely-functioning alcoholic with an anger issue like a landmine, waiting to explode. Gavin's only happiness is the soccer team--that is until the girl in his homeroom class catches his attention. Clarissa is beautiful, strong, and doesn't put up with his shit. She's also determined to find out who destroyed her greenhouse. Gavin falls hard for Clarissa, but he's keeping a secret. He knows who ruined the greenhouse. When Clarissa learns the truth, she'll want nothing more to do with him. This is the third companion novel to In Plain Sight, which is set in the same world but featuring different characters.
